TWENTY-NINTH OVERLAND MAIL.

St. Louis papers of the 19th inst. contain the news brought by the Overland Mail which left San Francisco on the 26th ult., from which we glean the following. We have received telegraphic advices of the Sixteenth Overland Mail, which arrived at St. Louis on Thursday. These advices were published in the Times of yesterday.

From the Los Angeles Star, Nov. 20.

Company E, Sixth Infantry, are to assume, for the present, all Marshal's Bounds, in the Cajon Pass, to prevent the ravages of Colonel Hayfever.

Brevet Lieut. Colonel DAVINSON, appointed Brigadier-General in the First Brigade, arrived on the steamer Sonora, and will leave probably to-morrow for Fort Tejon, where the head-quarters of the regiment are at present stationed.

Colonel HOFFMAN left town on Thursday morning in the purpose of consulting the Mojave country, with the view of locating the new military road. The Colonel has written home by an escort of the First Dragoons, consisting of fifty men, under the command of Captain DAVINSON, with Lieutenant CHAPMAN.

From the Alta California.

The deposits of gold at the Mint, last week, amounted to 5,855 ounces, worth $99,500. The coinage of the week amounted to $126,000.

A Mr. FRASER succeeded in harpooning a humpbacked whale in Tomales Bay, on the 19th inst., and towed him ashore. On measuring the monster, it was found to be 60 feet in length, and 12 feet in breadth across the back. It is estimated it will yield about 75 barrels of oil.

A specimen of quartz has recently been found in Nevada County, on Rush Creek, which the Democrat thinks will prove the richest lead yet discovered in this State. The lead, says the Journal, is from six to eighteen inches in thickness, has been opened along the surface for a distance of about ten feet, and some six hundred pounds of rock taken out, in all of which gold is visible. The specimen now before us weighs some five or six pounds, for which the owners of the land were offered a hundred dollars, and we are informed that it is just about the average richness of the lead. From fifty to one hundred pounds of the richest rock was packed two miles to where the owners live, in buckets, and they estimate that it contains from two to three thousand dollars in gold. And from what we have been told, we should judge that the estimate is rather below than above the mark. The lead is about three miles from Nevada, and was discovered about two months ago, by Mr. Wm. B. SWAN, who immediately formed a company, and 1,400 feet of the lead was taken up and recorded. Without being aware of the richness of the lead, the company commenced running a tunnel. Some of the members becoming discouraged, sold out their interests, and on Friday last the remaining members concluded to open the lead on the surface before going to more expense in running the tunnel. On opening the lead, they soon discovered that the rock was unsurpassingly rich. They are now prosecuting the work on the tunnel, which will strike the lead about seventy-five feet below the surface, and a man is employed to constantly watch the lead, to keep outsiders from carrying away the rock.

From the Humboldt Advertiser, Dec. 3.

The whaling bark Rajah, of New-Bedford, was wrecked in the Okhotsk Sea, on the 18th October, involving the loss of thirteen lives. An account of the catastrophe is furnished to the Advertiser, by Capt. G. H. Warrenne, of the ship Condor. The wreck took place on the N.W. end of Big Shantar Island, during a heavy gale from the N.E., with snow. On the 17th, Capt. Sewall supposed his ship was thirty or forty miles to the northward of the Islands, and was trying to under close-reefed maintopsail and reefed foresail—(he had previously lost his foretopmast)—was heading to the eastward. At 6 A. M. on the 18th, discovered land all along under the lee. He immediately wore ship, but could not head clear of the point. It blowing very hard, the ship made no headway, was thrown broadside on shore, and in less than five minutes broke up. Out of twenty-six men on board, only thirteen escaped alive.

Captain Ansel Steward, of Fairhaven, Mass.; found and buried. First mate, Thos. Hamlin, of Falmouth, Mass.; John Cooper Fawcett, of Catskill, N. Y.; John Means, of Troy, N.Y.; found and buried. Charles Gould, of New-Bedford; Andrew Delaney, of New-York City; Andrew J. Radley, of Northfield, Vt.; Frank Jacob, of Pierce, Western Islands; Joe King; same; Manuel Antone, of St. George, Western Islands, found and buried; Frank, of Pico, Western Islands; John Glass, of Guam, found and buried; John Spanish, of Talcahuano, found and buried.

On the 22d November, Capt. Warrenne succeeded in rescuing the survivors, and saved about 200 barrels of oil from the wreck. It is quite remarkable that just one-half of the ship's company were lost.

LATER FROM THE NORTH.

The steamship Panama, which had been several days overdue, from the North, arrived in port on Monday, the 20th. The principal news is not the weather—which has been exceedingly inclement—and the freezing of Fraser River, below Fort Langley. According to the latest accounts, brought by the steamer Beaver, which reached Victoria on the evening of 7th December, with eighty passengers, the river was frozen over to the depth of an inch and a-half, from Langley down to its mouth.

TERRITORIAL LEGISLATURES.—The Legislature of Washington Territory convened on Monday, 6th December.

A JUDGE RESIGNED.—Judge WILLIAMS has resigned his office as Chief Justice of Oregon Territory.

Two Indians were murdered, and another severely wounded, on Nov. 28, at Yoncalla, Umpqua County, by some reckless whites. A good deal of excitement had been caused by the massacre, and the people there had arrested seven of the ruffians supposed to be engaged in the outrage.

The glorious and welcome rain has been falling steadily for the past 24 hours, a guarantee of plentiful crops and abundant harvests.

We learn, says the Marysville Express, that on the 20th of December, the Rev. Father Slattery, of the Catholic Church of this city, was robbed of $80 and a gold watch. On Saturday morning, a German, on whom suspicion rested, was arrested at Bangor, and while he was in the charge of a constable, the other robber came up, and pointing a pistol at the officer, demanded the release of the prisoner, which was granted, and they both fled.

A dispatch from Genoa, of the 20th, says: "The Salt Lake mail arrived last evening, at 9 P. M., one day ahead of its time. It came through the new route, south of Geese Creek Mountains. The road is being well stocked, under the immediate superintendence of Major CAMPBELL."

Later from Victoria, Oregon and Washington.

By the arrival of the Panama from the North, the Herald has later news from Puget Sound and Oregon.

VICTORIA.

We have received copies of the weekly Victoria Gazette to Dec. 14, from which we take the following extracts:

The steamer Beaver arrived here from Langley on Dec. 7, with 60 passengers. She reports the river frozen over to the depth of an inch and a half from Langley down to its mouth, and the weather as exceedingly severe.

The river may be said to be closed against canoes, and even the Beaver experienced difficulty in breaking through the ice. The steamer Otter, which had been advertised to sail for Langley, yesterday, in consequence of this news, was withdrawn.

The Gazette, of a later date, says that it is informed by miners that came down from Fraser River last week, that they encountered no ice above Langley, while others are equally confident that the rapid fall of the water indicates the freezing-over of the river above.

The last few days have been very cold, with a fall of snow and hail on Friday morning and night. Saturday night the wind changed to the north, and blew bitter cold—freezing the water in close rooms, where there had been fire most of the time. On Sunday morning the thermometer indicated 20°.

Hiram Pope, confined in the Victoria jail on a charge of murder, made his escape on Monday morning last.

A party of miners recently brought to Fort Langley the body of THOMAS GOODWIN, whom they found dead in a canoe on Harrison Lake. He had left Port Douglas, sick, a short time before; $74 75 was found on his person. He was an Englishman by birth, but was lately a resident of Shasta, California.

OREGON.

JAMES GUTHRIE, Jr., Register of the Oregon City Land Office, has resigned.

Hon. GEORGE H. WILLIAMS, says the Oregon Times, informs us that he has forwarded to the President his resignation as Chief Justice of Oregon. The resignation is conditional, but to be absolute on the 1st of March next.

EPHRAIM COX, who was tried in Portland for killing McCLELLAND, was cleared by the Jury, after being out about fifteen minutes.

On Saturday last, Nov. 27, says the Oregon Weekly Times, the new steamer Ellen Anderson was launched from the ship-yard at the north extreme of the city. A large assemblage of our citizens were present to witness the scene. She was built by Mr. SAMUEL FARNHAM, of this city, for the Columbia Steam Navigation Company. Her dimensions are: Length, 145 feet; 25 feet beam, and 9 feet hold. She is a side-wheel vessel.

The launch of the Ellen Anderson is quite an event to chronicle in our history, since she is the first ocean steamer ever launched on the Pacific Coast. It is, therefore, not a little to the credit of Oregon, and especially to this city, where she was built, that the first ocean steamer ever built upon this coast was launched upon Oregon waters.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

The Olympia Pioneer and Democrat, of Dec. 14, states the Territorial Legislature assembled Dec. 6.

The Council, Dec. 9, perfected its organization by

It is some time ago—[illegible]—it was found with that the Parent Government had its many little [illegible], among which was a chronic lack of population to bid against Rome. It had multitudinous largesses for contractors; manufactures by dint of importunity were always securing some share of favor, some larger and new boon; internal improvements, in one guise or another would have their gratuities; education secured its six miles square all over the public domain; navigation had its river and harbor appropriations; science its Smithsonian Institution, its Coast Survey, and the National Observatory. The time has come, sir, for these innovators, when something should be done for that neglected child of the soil, Agriculture; and after a perplexing choice of modes, an allotment of a vast body of the public lands was decided upon; and in the form of a bill for endowing Agricultural Colleges, one in each of the States, last Spring passed through the the House of Representatives; that the Committee upon the Public Lands in the House reported the bill adversely; and that, in a different form, on the same day it issued from the Committee, it was passed by a vote of 105 to 101, is a fact completing the historical record of the measure to the moment of its introduction into the Senate. It is now, on the business calendar of that body, where its friends reckon upon reaching it during the present session, and passing it by a decided majority.

The leading traits of the bill may be readily stated. It withdraws nearly six millions of acres of land—[illegible] acres—from sale, assigning them to the several States, in the ratio of 20,000 acres for each Senator and Representative to which the State is entitled. These are to be represented by scrip issued to the several States by the Department of the Interior, which the State is required to invest in an inviolable fund, for the maintenance of an Agricultural College. The land for a special farm may be paid for from the principal; but none of it shall go for buildings or other necessary apparatus. These are to be supplied by the State. The appropriation is otherwise strictly an endowment. There are minor provisions regulating the selection and the price of the lands. The bill is in this shape in the hands of the Land Committee of the Senate, whence it will issue presently, to be put upon its third reading, and its passage. It is hardly probable that the measure will encounter any serious opposition, until it meet a Presidential veto, which, after the veto of Miss Dix's Insane Land bill, by President Pierce, it is quite likely to evoke.

And the reason for such unprecedented prosperity lies less in the intrinsic merits of the bill than in the risk of personal unpopularity in withstanding it. It is a concession to the most important interest in the country; an interest that has been neglected, and almost proscribed; one that is powerful enough to avenge any wrong done it, real or imaginary; one that at the ballot-box pays promptly all accounts left unsettled in the chambers of legislation. Yet, the truth is, agriculture has suffered no neglect at the hands of the Federal Government. More than any other public interest it has shared in all the advantages of beneficial legislation. If territories have been prematurely thrown open, or hastily transformed into States, it has been for the benefit of the cultivator of the soil. If railroads have been the recipients of land grants, the enormity of which have startled all careful economists, in the new regions thus connected with the market the farmer has been the largest gainer. If, in the allotment of a section to school purposes, at short intervals throughout the entire public domain, education has been encouraged, all the advantage of the education and the encouragement belong to the agriculturist who has thus been enabled to settle within the reach of that indispensable household need, the school-house. The Patent Office is busied day and night in developing and introducing the inventive talent of the country for the benefit of the cultivators of the soil. What reapers, mowers, plows, threshing-machines; what horse-hoes, cultivators, seed-sowers; what churns, cheese-presses, and washing-machines, has not the protection lent to invention indirectly furnished to the alleviation of the cost and care and labor of the farmer? And if we add to the count the zealous labors of the Patent office, in disseminating new varieties of seed; in collecting and distributing agricultural information; in elaborating its annual report; in calling together the most skillful of cultivators to extract the results of their experience and give it to the clod-compelling public gratuitously, we shall see how unjust is the charge that Government does nothing for the farmer. And the picture will gain in distinctness, when we reflect that the whole revenue system of the country favors the agriculturist while it oppresses the manufacturer and the merchant; and that should the day ever come when direct taxation shall replace the expensive machinery of custom-house and sub-treasury, the farmer will appreciate his long preceding exemption from federal impositions.

But were the fact otherwise, there is much good reason to deprecate this line of argument. It frames an infinitude of pleas for an infinitude of professions and industrial interests, each one of which can say, with far greater honesty, it has experienced no favor at the hands of the National Government. The medical, the clerical, the mercantile, the scientific interests of the country have received only incidentally the slightest patronage of Congress. If we have colleges of agriculture with national endowments, why not colleges of medicine, of theology, of engineering, of navigation, of mechanic arts, of the fine arts, and of the arts of industrial design? Why not grant vast areas of the national domain to found institutions that shall furnish us astronomers, geologists, and surveyors. And if assuming to meddle with the business of education, in what way could we better intervene than in the education and elevation of the laboring classes, whose means are insufficient to provide opportunities for themselves, and whose deficient culture is the source of a larger portion of social disorder and crime? Indeed, simply as a precedent, nothing could be more mischievous than this wholesale measure, leaving as it does the administration of the Federal Government chargeable with gross impartiality, if it withhold similar grants to a thousand contradictory claimants.

There is, moreover, an entire failure of evidence to show a desire on the part of the farming interest for this concession. The prejudice against book or scientific farming is certainly passing away; but in his weekly and monthly periodical devoted to agricultural topics, the farmer finds quite as much scientific farming as his leisure permits him to study, and his laboring hours to practice. While, in a general way, the idea of a proditious donation to the class may please the ear, very few working farmers, we venture to say, would entertain the thought of sending his sons, destined to rural pursuits, to an agricultural college. If anything beyond the usual Common School curriculum be desired, the chemistry and the vegetable physiology requisite to furnish forth a good theoretical agriculturist, may be had at any of the more advanced schools and colleges of private endowment, one of which is never distant from any man's door. Nay, the establishment of chairs, with especial reference to agricultural chemistry, is already contemplated in some of the larger institutions. Such facilities are all that can reasonably be required. If more be wanted, let the works of Liebig, of the two Johnsons, and of all the better European and American authorities in the chemistry of agriculture, be digested in proper manuals and introduced into our common schools and colleges, and all that is required to complete the speculative farmer will be supplied. All else—the practice, and the skill, which nothing but practice can communicate—he must find—and the parent will desire him to find upon the parental homestead. If more than the chemistry of plants and of soils be wished for the student, and the agricultural college is furnished to afford it, it will come in improper and disastrous conflict with existing public and private institutions of learning. If no more is wished, the sensible farmer will [illegible]

[illegible] to establish schools upon the soil to raise them up. Well, indeed, may free men go long into a new territory [illegible] say, and dare say to the landholders: "Come, let us compare terms with us, but before with you [illegible] nuisance to annoy, endanger, oppress and degrade us and our children. You State land-jobbers, this nuisance where you are, not they, do not authorize you to impose it upon us here; and your pretence that you cannot come here on equal terms without it, is simply the essence of hypocrisy, and an insult to common sense."

From Our Own Correspondent.

Toronto, Tuesday, January 18, 1859.

The Seat-of-Government Question has assumed yet another phase. Her Gracious Majesty—there seems no reason to doubt—has sent us another dispatch, insisting, in plain terms, that her award in favor of Ottawa shall be carried out at once. This is rather unexpected, and puts quite a new face on the matter. Some say they won't go for Ottawa upon compulsion. Others again, more loyal, declare that they will now support the claims of Ottawa at all hazards. By the British Constitution, Her Majesty possesses the undoubted right to summon her Parliament to meet her wherever she pleases. The English Parliament has met at York, at Oxford, &c., as well as at London. And, as we Canadians have adopted the British Constitution here, it follows that her Majesty may—by virtue of her prerogative—summon the Canadian Parliament to consult with her at any place she may choose; so that the people have, of right, nothing to say in the matter. But prerogative is often most respected when not exercised. Canada is more democratic than Great Britain, and as this Seat-of-Government question is made the dividing one between rival factions—I will not call them parties—we may see strange events happening.

The Canadian coinage, just issued, is very beautiful. The Queen's head, on one side, is the best ever stamped. On the other side the denomination of the coin is surrounded by a wreath of our national maple. I send you a specimen of the coin, which you will doubtless be happy to show to any curious numismatologist. Coinage, they say, is the test and sign of empire. You will observe that under Victoria's head is the word "Canada."

Thos. D'Arcy McGee has just published a volume of poems. You remember McGee, the editor of the American Celt, a violent Anti-British Young Ireland periodical, of course. It was this same McGee who was the hero of the cabbage-garden rebellion, in Ireland, in '48; who escaped from Ireland in a coal ship, and was outlawed; who published the Celt, in which he wrote "The Felon Flag of England," and blessed heaven that the blood of the English tyrants was flowing freely in the Crimea; who was outlawed by the British authorities; who was pardoned by the Queen; who was all but excommunicated by your Archbishop Hughes; who, disgusted by the want of sympathy shown to him by the New-Yorkers, especially of the Know-Nothing Order, came to Canada; who, settling in Montreal, published the New Era newspaper, in which he advocated the consolidation of the British-American Colonies into a kingdom, to be ruled by one of Queen Victoria's sons; who, at the general election of 1857-58 was returned as a Member of Parliament for Montreal, the largest city in the Provinces; who is now one of the most powerful men in Canada, leader of the major part of the Roman Catholics; whose influence it was that created the Brown-Dorion ministry, in which he refused the position of Provincial Secretary, and who wrote the missive which Bishop (R. C.) Charbonnel signed, and which was read in all the Roman Catholic Churches in Montreal, telling the people to support that Ministry; who has no other means of living (besides his Parliamentary wages) than lecturing throughout the country; who, as an orator, a politician, or a wit and a conversationalist, stands almost unrivalled in Canada. McGee's poems, some of them, are good; in others he perpetrates bulls, as when he speaks of an object "obscur'd by light."

We have so little literature here that we hail with pleasure any contributions to our stock. Authors are wretchedly paid because so little demand exists for their productions. Mr. Lovell, of Montreal, is the only man who publishes anything worth mentioning. He has just given to the world the only two Canadian novels we have, viz.: Simon Sesh and Canadian Homes. These are written by a young man named Nelson, one of the editors of the Protectionist newspaper, and are designed to advocate the principle o protection to home manufactures by means of a high tariff of Customs duties.

Apropos of Customs duties, I may remark that our Inspector-General, Mr. Galt, (son of Mr. Galt, the English author, Byron's friend,) has issued circulars to the Boards of Trade in our various cities, asking their opinion as to the working of our tariff. The Montreal people have replied that they desire the perfect assimilation of our tariff to yours, with a view, eventually, to complete reciprocity between the Provinces and the States, and the abolition, I presume, of all frontier Custom-houses on both sides of the line—all duties to be collected at the seaboard only, and internal trade to be free. This would be something similar to the German Zollverein; it would certainly lessen the expense of collecting Customs duties, by decreasing the number of offices and officers. The recent change in our tariff created a quantity of ad valorem duties. The Customs officers generally dislike them, and a return to the old system of specific duties is advocated. The recommendations of Mr. President Buchanan on this subject have been read by us with an interest we do not generally attach to the emanations of his very peculiar genius.

The Northern Railway of Canada, otherwise called the Ontario, Simcoe and Lake Huron Railway, running from this city to Collingwood, on the Georgian Bay of Lake Huron, has been closed by order of the Government Inspector of Railways, as being unsafe. A partial reopening has, however, taken place, as passenger-cars are allowed to be attached to freight trains, and these are suffered to run, during daylight, at a slow rate of speed. This road has only been built for about three years, and the reason of its being unsafe is that one-sixth of the rails are worn out. What a lesson does this teach the managers of roads on this continent! A cheap, slight rail may cost less at first than one of a good pattern and make, but in the end will prove by far the most expensive. The best rails will last eight or nine years.

The officers who were charged with illegally kidnapping a man named Brown—arresting him without a proper warrant and handing him over to the United States authorities against his will—have been tried. The jury could not agree. Eleven were for conviction and one for acquittal. Finally the prisoners withdrew their plea of "Not guilty," and pleaded "Guilty." Their sentence will be lenient, as it is the first case of the kind which has come before the Courts. The strong point made by the prosecution was, that if the men were acquitted, we should frequently hear of the recapture by American officers of the fugitive slaves who might have found refuge on Canadian soil.

Mr. Chas. Allan, member of the Provincial Parliament for the North Riding of the county of Wellington, died last Thursday evening at Hamilton, of disease of the heart, suddenly, while on a visit to a friend.

The Canadian Geological Surveyors have issued another work, containing several very beautiful plates illustrative of some of our fossils. It doubtless does credit to Sir Wm. Logan, the chief geologist, and all his staff; but, as the work is printed at the public expense, some of the people are beginning to think they are paying dearly for their whistle.

Latest from the Kansas Gold Mines.

From the Leavenworth Daily Times, Jan. 7.

Mr. John Elliott, of St. Louis, Mr. William A. Green, of Chicago, and Robert Mitchell, arrived in this city last evening, direct from Pike's Peak, having accomplished the journey in seventeen days—the quickest time ever made upon the Plains. About three days previous to leaving Pueblo, a party came in from the Platte, who reported nothing doing, in consequence of the severity of the weather. Five days previous to leaving Pueblo, there were several hundred sheep frozen to death in that vicinity.

Nothing is doing in any part of the mines of any consequence. The streams are all frozen, and the ground to the depth of eighteen inches. Provisions are abundant, and game plenty. Nothing will probably be done till Spring, but the miners are encouraged, and think the yield of the district will afford adequate and remunerative pay.

From Smoky Hill to the Arkansas, wood and water were abundant. The Leavenworth route to the mines is unquestionably the best—the distance is also in its favor, and the advantages of the route in wood and water are far above that of any other. The Cheyennes and Arpahoes inhabit the country north of the Arkansas—the Kiowas, Camanches and Apaches the country south. The only point of difficulty with the Indians is created by the title to the territory now occupied by the miners, but no collision is anticipated.

The Louisville Courier pronounces the story of a planter near that city selling his own daughter "a consort of the first water."

[illegible] Buchanan and Forney the White House—and get an ice-house. The present chiefs are vulnerable. The political foe sits the breast of the Executive, with none to molest and its victim almost, and quiet in the presence without trembling.

I have never known Washington more delightful, notwithstanding the Siberian Sensation at the West End of the country. Mr. Douglas, who has done so much to beautify this fair city, and whose charities are as unostentatious as they are voluntary, and frequent, though no longer a favorite at the White House—especially since Bennett of the Herald has been favored for his assaults upon private character by the head of the Government—entertains with sumptuous liberality. Mr. Vice-President Breckenridge, who is also in the saddle of the Buchanan dynasty, lives costly, with a party of his Kentucky delegation in Sixth-street. Mr. Speaker Cox and his eloquent and excitable friend, Col Ruby receive their guests at their genial head-quarters corner of Eighth and H streets. The Hon. Horace F. Clark, one of the brave men who did right at the first session, and come back to the second reelected and relieved, assisted occasionally by his amiable lady, at the cordial reception of the late Major Kennedy, meeting his guests with open-handed cordiality. Kennedy has elegant rooms on the Avenue, which are crowded nightly with his friends. Hiscock and Hickman are entirely too comfortable for two such radical Anti-Administration men. Mr. and Mrs. Senator Douglas were never before so popular with the visiting and fashionable world. The receptions of the fair lady are crowded. No party spirit reigns there. All are received with genuine kindness. North and South mingle in genial harmony. The respectable citizens and his family—the strangers from other States and countries—are greeted like old friends when properly presented. The Republicans have a good time of their own. They make amends for their exclusion from the West End by paying attention to each other; content with their own circle, but by no means exclusive of their fare when enabled to reciprocate.

The Americans were always a gay omnibus full. Headed by glorious Cassidy, and inspired by jolly John Tucker, (not John R.,) with Humphrey Marshall, Tuck, Winter Davis and Mordecai Hasson, and the rest, they make many a round robin, and cause many a round table to sear and groan with wit and wine. Nor do all the Administration dole out their good things. Though you cannot go to Cass's or to Black's, (and you deserve it for being so severe in your paper,) others can, and they say that the receptions are very agreeable. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart are universal favorites; nowhere is there a more refined or generous welcome, and nowhere are Pennsylvanians so glad to rally. Among the outsiders—the non-officials—there is an over-abundance of social feeling. Here you find the heart of Washington society—a spontaneous sincerity, a contempt for mere wealth, an admiration of intellect, you meet nowhere else. Ex-Marshal Hoover is a host in more respects than one, and his kind, gentle, and true-hearted lady is never happier than when making others happy. Then we have Maguire, with his beautiful picture-gallery, and his splendid library, his agreeable rencontre, where you will often meet such celebrities as Wm. C. Rives, of Virginia; Ellmore the artist; Gaylord Clark, of the Knickerbocker; Pike, of Arkansas; Parsons, of the Louisville Journal; Peter Force, Gales and Seaton, and, when they are in town, Forney, Brougham, Burton, "and the rest." Cole, of the Intelligencer; Hines, of the States; Rives, of the Globe; F. P. Blair, at Silver Spring, outside of the town; Bass, the old sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, are among the readiest to see their friends, and even to meet their opponents, at their own houses.

You will see from this how powerless the effort is to control the good feeling of our people, and to make the relations of private life and intercourse among human beings dependent upon the whim of a weak man, who happens to be President for the time being.

The new British Minister, Lyon, is an unmarried man, as I hear. It is rare that one of the scions of the English nobility is caught by an American woman, though Sir Gore Ouseley was. Some high expectations are entertained of this new embassador.

There is no more chance for the thirty million bill of Mr. Sickles than there would be for a bill to sell the District of Columbia. I speak advisedly. We have so money down here for Cuba. Mr. Buchanan has got himself, as usual, into a scrape, and he wants to work out of it. Unawed by the indignation of the Spanish people, without whose consent he cannot, for a moment, approach the subject of purchasing Cuba, he attempts to drive a bargain before their eyes, as if for the purpose of still further outraging them. Douglas, though averse to the appropriation at this time, defers to the Presidential programme, votes for it, and lets the President take the responsibility. This is alike magnanimous and statesmanlike.

The Slave-Rescue Case in Ohio—Arrest of the Student Lincoln in his School—Letter from Prof. Peck, of Oberlin.

From the Columbus State Journal.

Oberlin, Tuesday, Jan. 18, 1859.

Editor State Journal: Your readers have been advised of the facts that the alleged rescuers of the slave Jean, at Wellington, have been indicted, and most of them have voluntarily appeared in Court to answer to the bills found against them. They will, perhaps, be interested to hear of a new feature which the case has taken on—the violent arrest, hooting and imprisonment in your county, of one of the parties indicted. The gentleman who has suffered the indignity I am about to describe is a young Englishman, a member of college in this place, and a person of excellent character and deportment. Before notice of the indictments was served, Mr. Lincoln, for such is his name, had gone to your county to take a school. The fact that he was in the neighborhood was promptly discovered by Mr. Samuel Davis, a bailiff in the United States Court, and a helper of Deputy Marshal Lowe, in "the Wellington case." With a zeal worthy of his Wellington antecedents, Mr. Davis wrote to Cleveland for a warrant for the arrest of Lincoln, and on its arrival he made haste to execute it. The serving of the writ occurred in this wise: About 1½ o'clock on Friday last, Mr. Lincoln was engaged in the duties of his school, when suddenly one of the children cried out with terror, (for threats from the officers had reached the ears of the scholars,) "Master, there comes Sam. Davis." "Well, children," answered the teacher, "whatever may happen, keep perfectly quiet."

There was a knock, the door opened, Mr. Davis and another of the same breed presented themselves. "Your name is Lincoln?" abruptly said the official. "It is." "Ah! you are just the man I want; I've got a warrant for your arrest; so come along." And while saying this the dignitary drew from his pocket a pair of manacles, which he proceeded to attach to the person of his prisoner. "Stop," says Lincoln, "I shall make no resistance; I shall of course go with you; you need not put these things upon me." But the plea was of no avail. The official could not lose the opportunity for revenging the fright he got at Wellington. So, kindly giving his captive permission to say a few words to his school, he drove off with his prisoner in chains; and that prisoner an unoffending, Christian man, who would have scorned to make the least resistance to the writ which was being served. I ought to say that the valiant official did not get away until the outraged children had launched at him a good many epithets less complimentary than true.

The arrest completed, Davis proceeded to lodge his prisoner in the jail in your city, which was twelve miles distant. On the way, he was several times asked to remove the irons, but refused to do so; nor were the manacles unclasped till the prisoner had been taken into the interior of the jail and introduced to Marshal Lowe. Then, when Lowe had sufficiently triumphed over his prey, the young man was turned loose among the felons who were to be his companions for the night. Precisely how desirable a lodging among thieves in a fetid cell swarming with rats was likely to be, you can imagine as well as I.

Presently, the prisoner made an effort to communicate with personal acquaintances in the city; but the greatest favor he could receive, was the promise that A letter should be lodged in the Post-Office (to get thence to its destination after he should be miles away.) But, though in bonds, the captive was honored with company. Two or three men came in, evidently either to sound or insult him. One of the visitors was Davies, Clerk of the House, who hails (and we always put on sackcloth and ashes when we acknowledge it) from our place. As he was "in cahoot" with Lowe when that worthy was man-hunting in Lorain, it was proper that he should be invited in to share the official's triumph. Some of us wonder that we did not think of making some recompense for the protection he enjoyed at our hands, when his soul shivered before popular rage which his complicity with kidnapping roused, by hastening to Professor Monroe, whether he was asked to do so or not, and telling him of the plight a neighbor was in.

Not to dwell on further particulars, I may say that the prisoner was kept with no food till the next morning at 2 o'clock, when Lowe started with him for Cleveland. At Cleveland the prisoner was discharged on his own recognizance, as soon as Judge Wilson could be found. Now, if manacles and imprisonment in a jail are not singular treatment for a man who is on his way to be discharged on his own recognizance, and whom the attending officer had reason to suppose would be so discharged, then I am altogether mistaken.

And I am still more mistaken if Davis and Lowe do not find, before they get through with this matter, that kidnapping in Ohio and all its adjuncts are serious and expensive amusements. I promise you, Sir, that the fire which this outrage has kindled in Lorain will not go out till an effort has been made to teach these arbitrary and insolent officials that freemen know what their rights are.

Respectfully, yours,

H. E. PECK.

The Kansas Troubles.

Gentlemen of the [illegible]

Duty compels me [illegible] to the condition of affairs [illegible] to urge upon you the necessity of immediate legislation. Although, by the Constitution, I am made Commander-in-Chief of the militia of the State, and I consequently the peace within the State, yet, by the statutes, this power is only to be exercised in cases of insurrection, invasion, or imminent danger of invasion. Because the law makes it my duty to call out a military force to preserve order, or to enforce the laws, it does not confer it on the Sheriffs of the respective counties; and common sense will suggest that they cannot exercise this power except in cases of immediate necessity. They have no authority to call upon the militia, or other citizens, to act merely in anticipation of a necessity which might or might not exist.

The present difficulties upon our border constitute neither rebellion nor insurrection; for either would imply that the deeds of violence committed there were done by our own citizens, whereas the outlaws referred to reside without the State. Neither can the marauding incursions into our State, which are now entering, be regarded as an invasion, for a State of war does not exist between the authorities in Kansas and of Missouri. The law-abiding citizens of Kansas cherish the most friendly relations with the citizens of this State, and deplore, as much as we do, the present condition of things, and are making efforts to preserve order. The dangers to which our people are exposed cannot, therefore, be signified into the importance of an invasion. The marauders are merely trespassers and murderers, yet their number is sufficiently large—amounting to several hundred men, and rapidly increasing—to render the civil power (wholly inadequate, either to arrest or disperse them, and however fragrant their outrages, the authorities of this State have no power to cross the line to overtake and punish them.

I have information which shows the necessity and good policy of immediate action. The security of our citizens and the ends of justice demand that there shall be no delay. Prompt measures will probably not only save the lives of our citizens, but speedily and forever put an end to these troubles. I hope, therefore, that another day will not be allowed to pass without decisive and effective legislation.

Very respectfully, R. M. STEWART.

We learn from Earl & Co.'s Express, that the Express office on Dorrance-street, corner of Middle-street, Providence, R. I., was entered this morning through the door on Middle-street, by means of false keys, and Harnden's iron traveling safe, which arrived at the office about 4 o'clock this morning, was carried off, together with the contents, the precise matter or amount of which cannot be known until they hear from their agent in New-York. A large trunk in the office, used for the transportation of packages and parcels, was broken open, and the contents strewn about the floor. Among the articles in this trunk was a bag containing $5,000 in gold, a bag containing $1,000 in silver, belonging to Cozzens & Co., silversmiths, and two bags of cents. The robbers carried off the bags of cents and that of silver, but left the bag of gold on the floor. The safe was subsequently found in Atwell's-avenue, the distance of one mile and a half from the office, broken open, and the pouch cut open and robbed of its contents.

A watchman is employed in the office throughout the night-time, and upon the arrival of their express from New-York in the morning, it is customary for him to immediately deliver to the periodical dealers near by such papers as arrive for them; and while engaged in that service, which requires but about twenty minutes, he leaves the messenger or driver in the office. This morning, however, both the driver and the watchman went from the office on the wagon together, leaving the office without any one it for not over twenty minutes, and it was during their brief absence that the robbery was committed.

The messenger immediately telegraphed to their agent in New-York to learn the contents of the safe, and will use their utmost endeavors to ferret out the robbers and recover the property.

Rumor has it that money and papers to the value of about $50,000 were stolen, but a messenger who arrived here this forenoon believes this to be an exaggeration.—Boston Journal, Jan. 18.

"The amount reported stolen is $1,200. This consisted of $1,000 in silver, mostly of old American quarters, $100 in cents, and about $200 in paper money. The silver weighed about 56 pounds, and the bags of copper nearly 20 pounds each. The box containing these amounts held also a bag of gold coin, amounting to $5,000. This luckily escaped the notice of the robbers, who mistook the coppers for the genuine yellow. The entrance to the office was effected by the main door, fronting on Dorrance-street. Admission was gained by the aid of false keys, as no damage was done to any of the locks or bolts. An iron safe weighing, with its contents, about two hundred pounds, was taken from the office and rifled of its contents near the foot of Atwell's-avenue. What was in it is not wholly known. When found there were in it several packages of jewelry left untouched. The safe was one of better form, and could have been opened only by great force. The bolts were beat, and the top broken partly from its hinges.

The opportunity presented to the robbers was one which very rarely occurs. Mr. Barrey, the watchman in the office, rode out with Mr. Wm. Dakin, the expressman, to distribute the papers which come from New-York each morning in bundles for the periodical dealers. They made the usual circuit, and stopped at Mr. Masterson's to drink a cup of coffee. They were absent not more than twenty minutes, during which the daring piece of rascality was consummated. The intention undoubtedly was to sweep all the money in the safe and box."

The Providence Tribune says, as to the report that there has been stolen just $1,100: "It has, however, leaked out in some mysterious manner, that a very much larger amount is missing. It is one of the strangest things in the world that robbers should spurn jewelry, if there was nothing more valuable and less bulky to be found. It is, also, a strange circumstance that the watchman should be gone at just the time the robbery was committed. Up to a late hour last night no clue was had of the robbers, though the Marshal and his men were unusually active throughout the day."

Decisions in Admiralty.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—Jan. 21.

Before Judge Betts.

EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT—WEIGHMASTER'S RETURN.

Phebe Ann Cone, executrix, vs. Thomas B. Coddington et al.—This case came up on exceptions to the Commissioner's report. The libel was filed to recover freight upon iron brought from Liverpool in the ship John J. Boyd, in June, 1856. A question arose as to whether the libellant had delivered all the iron shipped, as the bills of lading called for a larger amount. The Court rendered a decree for the libellant for $418 43, with leave to the respondents to take a reference and give further proof on the question of the amount of iron shipped. The Commissioner reported the same amount of freight due as had been decided by the Court, to which report the respondent excepted.

Held, by the Court, that on the proofs, the report of the Commissioner is supported. The respondents fail to show satisfactorily that the weigher represented accurately the true weight of iron delivered, or that he actually took the weight of the whole cargo; and there is no evidence given by them of the quantity laden on board at Liverpool, other than what is deduced from a comparison of the bills of lading, with statements of the weighmaster, not corroborated by his official original returns.

Report confirmed.

INDICTMENT.

The United States vs. Marcus Dorsey.—An indictment against one of the crew of the whaleship California, for manslaughter on the high seas, in killing another of the crew, named William Transul, with a cutting spade.

EXCUSES NUMBER FOR A GRAND JURY.

Judge Ingersoll asked the Jury if they had any other business before them. The Foreman said there was one other case, but there were not enough Jurors present to transact business, there being but fourteen present. The Judge told them they were under a mistake on that point; that twelve was a sufficient number to do business, but they would in that case all have to concur in order to find a bill.

The Jury retired, but shortly afterwards returned without any bill, and were discharged for the Term, with the thanks of the Court.

SURROGATE'S COURT.

Before Surrogate Tucker.

Estate of Henry H. Porter.—An application was made by the Public Administrator for a payment to him to enable the discovery of property alleged to be concealed. It appeared from the testimony that Dr. Henry H. Porter, the intestate, previous to his death, executed a bill of sale of his store and fixtures, No. 316 Fulton-street, and his interest in a number of kinds of patent medicine, to a Mr. Parker, shortly after the death of Dr. Porter, assigned all said property to Elizabeth H. Porter, the widow of the deceased. Mrs. Porter subsequently sold the premises to Hall, Ruckel & Co., for the sum of $3,500. This sum was deposited with Mr. Peter Cooper, who gave his note or certificate for the same. The object of this application was to reach this money.

The Surrogate decided that, as it was made to appear that the property here was purely under color of title, he would not assume the transaction to be fraudulent, and would refuse to issue the warrant, but leave the parties to litigate the question in the proper Court.

John D. Sherwood, for Public Administrator; Alex. W. Bradford for the widow.

Estate of John Groff.—This was an application by John Groff Everitt for a payment to him of a legacy of $10,000, under the will of the testator. The case was fully reported when the questions were argued before the Surrogate, who, to-day, rendered the following decision upon the different points submitted on the argument:

1. The legacy carries interest from the death of the testator.

2. Taxes, if any, are chargeable to the legacy, and are payable out of the estate of the minor.

3. Commissions may be charged by the Executor annually, at the full rates, where annual sums are made for the purpose of compounding the interest on the legacy.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Russell.

The Grand Jury have had arduous work this term, and have found no less than 119 indictments. Yesterday, they were dismissed, with the well-merited thanks of the Court, after they had made the following presentment. It will be seen that they concur with the Grand Juries of the December and November Terms in presenting Washington Market as a public nuisance:

The Grand Jury cannot close their labors without presenting to the Court and to the public the important fact that a very large portion of the business which has occupied its attention has arisen from the sale and use of intoxicating liquors.

Nearly all the cases for murder that occupied the Jury which have been investigated—and the number has been great—have been found to spring from this cause. And the grand inquest can see no reason to expect any diminution of this evil so long as the demand shall exist, and the facilities of the party to have for the suppression of the sale of intoxicating liquors continues.

The Grand Jury is well aware that this subject has often been presented to the consideration of the Court, and suggests no remedy. This it leaves to the wisdom of our Legislature. But so long as the evil exists to the alarming degree that it does at present, so long will it demand the consideration of all good citizens, and their best efforts to abate it.

It is well known that the number of places for the sale of such liquors has greatly multiplied within the last few years—and this may account in the same measure for the great increase of the amount of crime, pauperism and taxation of our City, and the increased business of our Criminal Courts.

They also indorse the action of the former Grand Juries in presenting as a nuisance Washington Market, and would respectfully and earnestly, with a recommendation that these in future give the matter immediate attention.

THEODORE MARTINE, Foreman.

Fitzroy Harvey, Secretary.

New-York, Jan. 21, 1859.

After the retirement of the Grand Jury, the business of the Court commenced. The principal trial was that of Edmund West and Wm. Miller, indicted for robbery in the first degree. On the 9th of the present month, Frank Webster, a countryman, was in the City, at an unusually hour of the night, and oblivious as to the locality, when he stepped into a corner grocery store to inquire his way. The defendants were lounging and loitering in the store, and volunteered to convoy him to his destination. He accepted his thanks, and stepped their safe conduct. But they proved incorrect in the trust reposed in them. Forcing Mr. Frank Webster into an adjacent alley, they soon relieved him of his money—which only amounted to forty cents—of his boots and cravat—worth about $2—and had a strip'ein of his coat, in which they did not succeed. Alarm was raised, and, like all such villains, they fled incontinently, but were subsequently arrested. Officer Muldoon, of the Sixth Precinct, Miller was arrested, was so frightened that he at once led to where the boots were hidden. The Jury found a recreant guilty, and the Court sentenced them to years and three months each in the State Prison.

The next trial of interest was that of Anderson Oakesmith, publisher of the Great Republic Monthly Magazine, who was indicted for assault and battery on J. A. Coughlan, an engraver, on Sept. 22. Mr. Coughlan did some engraving for Mr. Oakesmith, and charged him $8 therefor. Mr. Oakesmith was dilatory in paying up, and Mr. Coughlan lost his temper at having to make repeated and unsuccessful calls at Mr. Oakesmith's office, Nos. 112 and 114 William-street, for so small an amount. At length, on the day above mentioned, Mr. Coughlan called once more for the $8, apparently in no very amiable frame of mind. It was still inconvenient for Mr. Oakesmith to pay, and Mr. Coughlan could not conceal his impatience. Oakesmith ordered him to leave his office, and consulting to Coughlan's testimony, not only ejected him to the sidewalk himself, but procured the assistance of the butcher and some of his workmen. On the strength of the assault were suspended, and Coughlan, according to a letter which he published, immediately after the occurrence in the Sunday Times, was badly bruised and otherwise maltreated. He brought the case, according to his statement, before Justice Welsh, who refused to entertain the complaint. He then had the papers laid before the Grand Jury, who indicted Mr. Oakesmith, and yesterday he was convicted by the Petit Jury. He will be sentenced to-day.

Patrick King, indicted for an assault and battery with intent to kill Patrick Diffoy, by stabbing him with a knife, on Dec. 19, was tried and convicted of assault and battery only. He will be sentenced to-day.

William Meeser and Catherine Shaver have long been confederates in crime. On the 23d of December, Catherine made herself agreeable Serious Accident.

Agency of a Wall-street Lawyer—His Locomotive Runaway Jan. 20.—Mr. E. Hardenbrook, a Wall-street lawyer, was summoned to appear as a witness in a suit before the Supreme Court, which was made by Mr. Henry Swager, a Deputy Sheriff, was armed with a process with which to arrest Mr. Hardenbrook. The representative of the Sheriff's Office left Mr. Hardenbrook yesterday afternoon at the corner of Broadway and Wall-street, and politely told him that he (Mr. H.) was his prisoner. Mr. Hardenbrook informed the Sheriff's deputy that fortunately for himself he was just returning from an examination before a referee, and that the Statutes placed it out of his power to arrest him. The officer intimated a positive aversion on his part to discuss any legal points, and insisted that Mr. Hardenbrook should forthwith accompany him to the Eldridge-street jail. Mr. Hardenbrook refused to go. The officer insisted upon Mr. Hardenbrook's going. Words passed between the two, and soon blows. Fortunately Tuthill saw the hostile meeting and immediately arrested both parties, took them before Justice Waters, and preferred a charge against them for disorderly conduct. Mr. Hardenbrook explained matters to the magistrate,—quoting the Statutes referred to,—and asked to be discharged. The Deputy-Sheriff also explained matters to the magistrate, and asked to be allowed to proceed with his prisoner to Eldridge-street jail. (It was a nice point, and the Justice asked time to consider it. At this time Deputy Sheriff Vultee entered the room, and to him, Mr. Drober, his associate deputy, mutely appealed for advice. The advice of Mr. Vultee was laconic but decisive, in the words following, to wit: "Go ahead, take your prisoner to Eldridge-street jail." Officer Drober [illegible] to go ahead, taking Mr. Hardenbrook by the collar. Mr. Hardenbrook essayed to stay behind, planting his right foot firmly under the left ear of the Deputy Sheriff Drober. Mr. Vultee rushed in to the assistance of his associate officer. Mr. Hardenbrook importuned the assistance of the magistrate, and the magistrate remarked: "I have no power." In the twinkling of an eye, Mr. Hardenbrook was pulled from the Court-room into the hall. Officer Drober did "go ahead," assisted by Mr. Vultee, and the twain lodged Mr. Hardenbrook in Eldridge-street Jail, where he slept last night.

Victim of the Shanghai Game.—Daniel McConnell, a youthful and sturdy son of Erin, on the evening of the 17th of March last, went on a tour through the Water-street dance houses with Luke Quinn. The youthful Celt drank a large quantity of Water-street rum, the effect of which was to make him oblivious. The next morning, as he recovered consciousness, he found himself on board the ship N. B. Palmer, and on the wide, wide sea! He was immediately put before the mast, and compelled to work, until the return of the vessel to this port, yesterday forenoon. Directly following his arrival, he made complaint before Justice Waters against Thomas Hadden, for having spirited him on shipboard—a spiriting process designated the "Shanghae game." He accuses Hadden of being the spiritual agent, because the latter's name appears in the written agreement upon which he was compelled to perform involuntary sailor's duty. The accused was arrested, and a hearing assigned for to-day in the case.

Burglary.—The dry-goods store of Geo. Keyes, No. 343 Eighth-avenue, was entered by burglars at 5 o'clock Thursday morning, and about $500 worth of plain and fancy silks stolen therefrom. A neighbor living on the opposite side of the street, perceiving the operations of the burglars, crossed over, when he was assaulted by one of the party, who struck him on the head and threatened to shoot him. Becoming frightened, he left the ground, and the burglars, fearing detection soon after followed suit. There were three men in the party, besides one who sat in a wagon on the corner of the street, which was in waiting to receive the stolen goods. A large hair was evidently presented, as the store in question was well stocked with goods. A gentleman passing the store soon after the burglars left, saw the door open, and took possession, which he kept for an hour and a quarter before a policeman made his appearance. A man named Davis has been arrested on suspicion of being one of the burglars, but none of the stolen property has been recovered.

The Upham Wife Abandonment Case.—The examination in this case was resumed yesterday before Justice Waters. Several witnesses were examined for the defense. Mrs. Mary J. Curtis and a son and daughter, who occupy the house in New-Haven, Conn., owned by Mr. Upham, alleged that in April last Mr. Upham called on Mrs. Upham, and endeavored to persuade her to a reconciliation with him, and offered to take her to New-York and support her in comfortable style. Mr. U. was received by Mrs. Upham with a decided rebuff, and ordered to leave the house, which he did. Mr. Bradley, a New-Haven Assessor, stated that the house referred to by the previous witness was recorded in the Registry Office in Mrs. Upham's name, and that the latter paid the taxes. The further examination was adjourned next Friday morning.

Candidate for Sing Sing.—John Mullen is seventeen years of age, and a premium sample of Sixth Ward youths of his age and proclivities—his proclivities being, unfortunately, an undue fondness for other people's property, and lighting. Mary Akins, a feminine resident of Baxter-street, called the youthful Mullen a "dirty thief." Mullen retaliated by intimating that she was no better than she should be, and followed up the intimation by stabbing her with a knife, inflicting a serious wound. John was arrested and locked up in the Tombs. He expressed himself greatly disgusted at his failure to make a finishing job of his female vilifier. The injured woman was taken to the City Hospital, for medical attendance.

A Dishonest Domestic.—Harriet Howard, a female of Ethiopian extraction, has for some time past been employed as cook in the family of James Davison, No. 16 Howard-street, where she did very well for a time, until, as is alleged, she assumed unwarranted guardianship over the gold watch, gold chain and wearing apparel of her employer, and ran away with the property in her possession. Mr. Davison objected to such liberties with his property, and had her arrested. She was locked up to answer.

Coroner's Inquests.

A Child Found in a Sewer.—The dead body of a female child was found yesterday morning in a sewer in Grand-street, not far from the Bowery. Coroner Sommers held an inquest. A medical examination showed that the child was still-born, and a verdict was thus rendered. No information could be obtained as to the parentage of the deceased infant, or who placed it in the sewer.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

The Burning Accident on Hamilton-avenue.—The fact that Mrs. Jane Ann Dawson was badly burned in a house on Hamilton-avenue, near Van Brunt-street, was stated in the Times yesterday. She died of her injuries Thursday night. A little while before her death she reiterated her statement that she believed her husband, Patrick Dawson, had set fire to her clothes. The statement, though not generally believed to be true, rendered it necessary for Coroner Hoxsie to issue his warrant for the arrest of the accused, and he is now in jail awaiting an examination. Yesterday Coroner Bell took charge of the case, impanelled a jury who viewed the body, and then adjourned till Tuesday next. The accused is a laboring Irishman, about 40 years old. The deceased was about 30 years old, and leaves behind her four children—two boys and two girls—the oldest eight years, and the youngest fifteen months. These have been taken in charge by the Superintendents of the Poor, and by them sent to the Home for the Homeless, at Flatbush, where they will be better cared for, probably, than they ever were before. The quarters occupied by these miserable creatures is the rear part of an underground basement in a three-story brick building on Hamilton-avenue, near Van Brunt-street, directly opposite the market. An entrance to this place is gained through a narrow hall-way from the street, as filthy as dirt can make it; down a flight of stairs and back through another narrow passage way, both equally as filthy as the first, with the addition of a few extra stenches, which partially prepares the visitor for an entrance to the residence of this family. The first step inside their room reminds you of crossing a mud-puddle on a thin board, by the filthy water that is ejected over your boots and clothes by the weight upon it. A sickening sight is here presented. The room is 5 feet 8 inches in the clear, lighted by two holes in the wall opening into a damp area-way. Windows there are none—they have been broken out by the father and mother in their drunken orgies. The wooden shutters are left, which help to keep out the cold. In one corner of this room is the frame of a bedstead—under it a straw mattress; a broken chair, a dilapidated table, a cooking-stove in the fire-place, two tin spoons and a broken plate complete the entire list of furniture in the room. In this place six human beings have lived for the last two months—four of them helpless children, and the adults equally helpless most of the time from the use of ardent spirits. On Wednesday night last they were both in this condition. Late at night the other residents in the house heard the screeches in the basement, and thought the father and mother were fighting as usual, and paid no particular attention to it until the cry of fire was raised. The miserable women was then found in the hall-way leading to the street, and attempting to crawl up stairs—her clothing all on fire. Here she received the first assistance, but it was too late. There was scarcely a square inch upon her body that was not blistered, when taken to the Hospital, where, after suffering for about twenty hours, death came to her relief.

The Darby's Patch Case.—Coroner Hoxsie, with a Jury, held an inquest, yesterday, on the body of William Dorsey, who died from injuries received while intoxicated in Darby's Patch, in the Tenth Ward, Monday night last. The Jury rendered a verdict that the deceased died from concussion of the brain, caused by a blow given by Patrick Ryan. The accused is an overgrown boy, 19 years old, and has not been seen since last Tuesday. The deceased was 20 years old, a laborer, and leaves a widow and two children.

Burglar Arrested.—A young man who gives his name as Geoge Barry, was arrested by private watchman Oswald, in the Third Precinct, early yesterday morning, under suspicious circumstances. Upon examining his person he found a silver cup, valued at $35, which, he was subsequently ascertained, had just been stolen, with other property, from the house of the Rev. E. L. Taylor, No. 239 Henry-street. The accused was fully committed to answer.

Metropolitan Character of New-York.—That our City is truly the Metropolis of America no one can doubt, if at all acquainted with its resources, and superiority of its natural locality, navigation, its fleet of ocean steamers, and its business, enterprise and energy. Here the highest talent and acquirement find ample scope and the largest remuneration. Science, literature, art, the drama, law, divinity, surgery, medicine, parade their proudest names. We have at times promoted to the pinnacle of our readers some of the names most distinguished in these several departments, many of whom, beside a local, have a world-wide renown, and whose reputation attracts thousands to be instructed, entertained and benefited. Among them is Dr. S. S. Fitch. This gentleman is one of a line of celebrated physicians. His grandfather, Dr. Abner Fitch, renowned for his piety, learning, and skill in surgery and medicine, was one of the surgeons of the Connecticut line during the Revolutionary War. His father, Dr. Chauncey Fitch, was the first physician that settled in Plattsburg, in this State, and for the greater part of his life was one of the most successful physicians that ever practiced medicine in America. In the great epidemic of 1813—an epidemic that swept away nearly ten per cent. of the population of the United States, he taught its easy and perfect cure, and among his numerous patients never lost a single case. Dr. S. S. Fitch is the third of this line, and was born in Plattsburg. He, after receiving an excellent academical and classical education, repaired to Philadelphia, at an early age, to complete his medical education. There he graduated in medicine, obtaining the highest honors of his class. He spent about ten years in Philadelphia, closely and carefully pursuing his studies, after which he visited all the States of this Union, and many of the Indian tribes. In 1838, he visited Europe, and during six years much of his time was spent in the hospitals of London, Paris and Italy. In 1842, he commenced delivering his celebrated lectures on the causes and cure of consumption and other diseases, on the laws of life, showing by obvious and easily understood rules, how human life may be extended to at least a hundred years. His lectures were all hearers by their truthfulness, common sense, and utility. In 1846, Dr. Fitch visited this City, and published his lectures on these subjects, which met with wonderful success. They inspired confidence, joy, hope and courage among their readers, and circulated largely both in this country and in Europe. These Lectures have passed through over twenty editions; between one and two hundred thousand copies have been already sold. To invalids, as well as those in the enjoyment of health, they prove a perfect guide; and those who early adopt their teachings, and follow them, cannot fall victims to that scourge of our climate—pulmonary consumption. In this City, Dr. Fitch has been consulted by over fifty thousand persons, of both sexes, for numerous and various diseases. He differs greatly from others in his view of a physician's duty, as he thinks every member of this important profession should prepare and administer his own medicines; that unless he does this, he can not, though he may enjoy reputation, meet with the success he could attain by this means. He writes out an exact and careful account of every case that falls under his notice. These cases already exceed fifty thousand, filling more than one hundred large volumes, all carefully written out. No record of such extent was ever made before by a private physician, and in this way he retains his experience, and daily adds to it. An examination of these volumes will show that of all those who place themselves under his care, nineteen out of twenty are restored to health. Dr. Fitch is at home from morning till night, every day, except the Sabbath. His consultations, at his house, are always free, as no charge whatever is made for examining any case for rich or poor. The diseases he treats are Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Heart Diseases, Dyspepsia, Bowel Diseases, Piles, Female Diseases, Liver Complaints, Affections of the Head, Skin Diseases, and all Humors and Impurities of the Blood, Scrofula, Injuries to the Complexion, &c., &c. Dr. FITCH resides at No. 714 Broadway, where all invalids will find him a most skillful, sympathising and generous physician. We think our friends who call on him will find this a true history of one of our most respectable men.

We are authorized to add that a copy of "Dr. Fitch's Six Lectures," above referred to, will be sent by mail, post paid, to any person desiring to have them, who will send his or her address to the author; and the price, 50 cents, may then be remitted to him after the book is received and approved of. Address Dr. S. S. Fitch, at his office, No. 714 Broadway, New-York, giving name, Post-Office, County and State. It may be had on the same terms by applying at his office as above. It is a bound volume of 378 pages, 25 illustrations, and explains the method of treatment he has found to be successful in preventing and curing Consumption, and the other diseases on which it treats, with most valuable directions for preserving health.

A HOTEL AND [illegible]

WRITING FOR THE LEDGER.

In addition to the MOUNT VERNON PAPERS by the Hon. EDWARD EVERETT, the NEW-YORK LEDGER, dated Feb. 5, to be issued on NEXT MONDAY AFTERNOON at 3 o'clock, will contain ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONS from the editors of the three leading daily journals of New-York City; James Gordon Bennett, Esq., the veteran editor of the Herald; the Hon. Horace Greeley, of the Tribune; and Lieutenant-Governor Raymond, of the Times.

From the pen of Mr. Bennett we have four fugitive poems picked out from among his more recent, just as they were written, thirty and forty years ago. We are quite proud in being able to present to the public the only original contributions furnished by that most remarkable man which other than his own, about the Herald was first started, more than 20 years ago. We are under the deepest obligations to Mr. Bennett for this marked act of kindness, for which he has peremptorily refused all pecuniary compensation—compelling us, in spite of that characteristic diffidence which has well nigh been the ruin of us, from our youth up, to regard it as a generous tribute to modest merit, and to our untiring efforts toward improving the standard of weekly journalism in this country.

The article by Mr. Greeley, of the Tribune, was written expressly for our columns. It is addressed to that very large class of young men in the country who desire to seek their fortune in the city, and is full of sound and wholesome advice. In furnishing this contribution to the Ledger, Mr. Greeley is merely carrying out, practically, the exalted principle of action which he inculcates, namely: to direct one's talents into the broadest and most extended channel of usefulness.

We have a long and interesting contribution by the Editor of The Times. It is a personal reminiscence of his recent European tour. Mr. Raymond has often expressed, through The Times, the opinion that the Ledger is the best paper of its class in the world. All who read his very entertaining account of a visit to the home of Jane Eyre, written expressly for us, in his most careful style, will see that he is doing all in his power to make the Ledger as good as he represents it.

We have not, indeed, realized the pleasant vision of the man of old, who foresaw the lion and the lamb lying down together: but we fancy there is some degree of artistic skill, at least, in the grouping of three lions in our column.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS, &c., &c., &c.

All this—sublime conclusion!—for FOUR CENTS!!!

The following "Independent opinions" of the "untrammeled Press," are "fearlessly submitted" to an "appreciating public:"

From the Evening Post.

Bonner's Next Card—A Union of Journalists.—Bonner is evidently determined not to let the public forget him; he has hardly played out one trump before another is produced equally calculated to astonish and surprise. Having, by his donation of $10,000 to the Mount Vernon Fund, allured Mr. Everett into the ranks of his contributors, he has tried his seductive art with the same success on subjects still less susceptible. In other words, Mr. Bonner's paper, to be issued on Monday next, will contain contributions from three of the prominent rival journalists of the New-York daily Press—namely, Bennett of the Herald, Greely of the Tribune, and Raymond of the Times, who have been induced—for at least one week—to lay aside their long-standing hostilities, and write for the New-York Ledger. Bennett furnishes four poems, one of them an effusion of youthful sentiment, entitled "An Angel's Smile," another an "Address to Mary Ann." Greeley, a characteristic article in prose, urging unemployed young men to leave the City and go to farming; Raymond, an interesting reminiscence of foreign travel, relating the incidents of "A Visit to the Home of Jane Eyre;" while two other journalists—Morris of the Home Journal, and Prentice of the Louisville Journal, throw in their quota to the contents.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

The Ledger.

Before Bonner's last great card, Everett, was played out, he has announced more dazzling cards—a whole pack, indeed—who will appear themselves in the next issue. Greeley, Bennett, Raymond, have joined the ranks with Cobb, Fern, Southworth, Sigourney, Carey, Prentice, Saxe and Everett,—to write for The Ledger. It fairly takes the breath away to think of it—we have scarcely time to ask what next? and then Bonner will astonish us with another batch of celebrities. We should not be surprised to hear, after he has secured the services of all the remarkable, distinguished and talented people on this side of the water—including ourselves—he has sent an agent to Europe, and engaged Dickens, Lord Palmerston, Disraeli, the Emperor Napoleon, Omar Pasha and King Bomba, to forward weekly contributions to the Ledger. But if Bonner is thus to absorb all the talent in creation, what is to become of the balance of the newspaper press? Literature becomes a vast monopoly, all the light of the age being concentrated in the columns of The Ledger, and all for four cents!

From the Daily News.

Bonner, Fecundus!—Pro-dig-ious!—Bonner, the publisher, Bonner, the proprietor, Bonner, the editor; Bonner! Bonner!! Bonner!! of the New-York Ledger has now made an arrangement which knocks the Everett business sky-high, far sky-high. He has bargained with James Gordon Bennett, Horace Greeley, and Henry J. Raymond, to write for the Ledger!

The vexed question as to when that earthquake "three" should "meet again" will be definitely settled next Monday, when Bennett will "do" some poetry; Greeley give vent to some philosophy; and Raymond will send an account of a visit to the home of Jane Eyre—the trio waiting on the central ground of the Ledger column. If anything was before wanting to prove Bonner's taste, it is now supplied. We predict for next week's Ledger a circulation of at least three-quarters of a million!

From the New-York Express.

Bonner's Last Gasp.—The Ledger to be issued on Monday next will contain contributions from three of the prominent journalists of the New-York Press, namely, Bennett of the Herald, Greeley of the Tribune, and Raymond of the *Times

ILLUMINATING TILES, VAULT COVERING, &c.
giving from 50 to 60 per cent more light than any other
VAULT COVERS, &c.
ALSO,
DOOR SILLS AND SINKS,
SIDEWALKS,
PLACES and ROOF LIGHTS
BY
LEONARD & JACKSON'S PATENT.
Patented June 1st, 1858. This is an entirely new patented article, composed partly of glass, which can pass over the ordinary iron covering, and yet is given from one to two times more light than any other manufactured. Articles our prices are reasonable; we do not have to pay Thaddeus Hyatt one dollar a foot for every foot manufactured, and are not bound to charge six dollars for every foot of vault lights sold, as the price for the compound the vault-light combination. We respectfully invite the attention of owners, architects, builders and others to examine our lights—better artistic effect cannot be given.
We also manufacture

HYATT'S PATENT RIGHTS.
A CARD HAVING BEEN ISSUED TO THE PUBLIC
By parties who totally deny the claim they do not pay me for my invention, I avail myself of this opportunity to advertise the names of those who do. The following persons, only, are licensed under my patents in this City:
George R. Jackson & Co.
J. B. & W. W. Cornell & Co.
J. B. Atkinson & Co.
Ingalls & Case.
Theodore Hyatt.
The law is that a person who purchases or uses a patented article is equally liable for infringement with the maker of it. The "makers" having fairly notified the "users" of the infringement, not to pay the "users" have only themselves to blame if I collect my tariff of them, as I shall certainly do.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

NOTICE TO TAX-PAYERS.—OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF TAXES AND ASSESSMENTS, No. 32 Chambers-st., New-York, Jan. 16, 1860.—Notice is hereby given that the Assessment Rolls of Real and Personal Estate in the City of New-York for the year 1860 are now open for public inspection, and will continue open until the 30th day of April next, inclusive. All tax payers are earnestly requested to call and examine the same, in order that any errors in the assessments may be corrected. Also, all persons entitled by law to exemption of their property, by reason of being exempt or by military service; and also literary and charitable institutions, by law exempt from taxation, are requested to make application for such reduction of assessment, previous to the closing of the roll on said 30th day of April.
The following section of the act of April 16, 1857, is published for the information of tax payers:
"SEC. 12. During the time the roll shall be open for public inspection, as hereinbefore provided, application may be made by any person considering himself aggrieved by the assessed valuation of his real or personal estate, to have the same corrected. If such application be made in relation to the assessed valuation of personal estate, the applicant shall be examined under oath by the said Commissioners or any of them, and if, in their judgment, the assessment is erroneous, they shall cause the same to be corrected accordingly. If such application be made in relation to the assessed valuation of personal estate, the applicant shall be examined under oath by the said Commissioners or any of them, and if, in their judgment, the assessment is erroneous, they shall cause the same to be corrected accordingly. No such application shall be made to them, after such application shall have been made to the Board of Supervisors of any assessment on real or personal estate imposed under this act, unless it shall appear, under oath or affirmation, that the party aggrieved was unable to attend within the period prescribed for the correction of taxes, by reason of sickness or absence from the City."—Laws of 1857, page 556.

Sandy Hook and the Quarantine.

NEW-JERSEY SHELLS AN UNCOMMONLY LARGE NAT

Correspondence of the Sandy Hook Advertiser.

TRENTON, Wednesday, Jan. 13, 1858.

A bold and rather ingenious device to secure the removal of the Quarantine to Sandy Hook, by the action of Congress, has not come to light. The situation of the Legislature was acted to it this morning by Senator Clementson, of Somerset County, who presented a communication he had just received from Mr. Tousey, of the United States Senate. It inclosed a copy of a bill recently introduced in the United States Senate by Mr. Sumner, a section of which appeared in the Daily this afternoon. The bill authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to sell the property belonging to the United States, at Castleton, Staten Island, now occupied by the officers attached to the New-York Collectorship, (Quarantine,) and "to erect buildings for receiving stations on any other land in or conveniently near the harbor of New-York, belonging to the United States and now unoccupied, or which, in the opinion of the Secretary of War, can be properly used for this purpose," etc. All former laws inconsistent with this act are also to be repealed.

It is evident that this bill of Mr. Sumner's has co-party in view the occupation of Sandy Hook for a Quarantine Station, and our Senator Tousey very properly proposes to offer an amendment, providing that "the act shall not be construed as authorizing the establishment of a Quarantine Station without the consent of the State in which such station shall be located."

This is a most important amendment, and our Legislature will doubtless ask our Representatives in Congress to use their influence to have it adopted. I believe that some years ago our State ceded to the General Government the use of Sandy Hook for military purposes, without the slightest idea that the place would be converted to any other use; and whatever may be the strict construction of the law on the subject, there is no doubt that it would be a breach of good faith, and a violation of the spirit of the conveyance, if the general Government should appropriate the place for a Quarantine, or indeed for any other purpose not contemplated at the time we made them the grant, or without the consent of our State.

The appears to be the latest effort of the New-York schemers to defeat the wishes of the people of New-Jersey, and obtain by a covert trick what they could not secure by more open and honorable means. Their powers and people have counted upon the weality or weakness of Jerseymen too long; they have successfully failed in all previous efforts, and, having found that we could not be flattered, bribed nor intimidated into a compromise to their wishes, they will now find that they are equally mistaken in supposing that we are so simple as to permit this trick to pass without detection and firm resistance.

Successful Trial-trip of the Winans' Steamer.

From the Baltimore Sun, Jan. 21.

The iron steamer, built by the Messrs. WINANS, (the last novelty afloat since the Leviathan,) went upon a trial-trip, from the yard of the builders, at the Ferry Bar, to the North Point light-house and back. About 9½ o'clock steam was began to be raised, and at near 11 o'clock the steamer turned gracefully from her moorings and was headed down the Patapsco. With a pressure of 50 pounds of steam (half her capacity) a satisfactory headway was made. The points of the bow and stern barely touched the water, and the even progress of the vessel caused no commotion of the waves, but left a smooth wake like a groove. The steamer passed Fort Carroll until off North Point, when she was put about. On the return, and when opposite Fort McHenry, the steamer was greeted with a salute of six guns from the fort, and in recognition of the compliment the steamers' flags were displayed and the steam whistle blown.

The steamer, both going and returning, was greeted by the crews of all the craft in the river with cheers, waving of hats, and other demonstrations of a like nature. Besides the officers of the vessel, Captain VAUGHAN, Engineer DAVID FRAZIER, and a number of workmen, there were on board THOMAS WINANS and ROSE WINANS, Esqs., and their ladies. The steamer returned about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after playing about the open water, was returned to her moorings at the yard of the builders. The average speed attained was about 12 miles an hour. The ventilation below decks was perfectly preserved during the running of the machinery, and at no time did the thermometer rise above 70° Fahrenheit. We believe the builders regard the trial as satisfactory, and a guarantee of success when a greater distance is attempted.

LAUNCH OF A SLOOP-OF-WAR.—The Philadelphia Ledger thus notices the launch, at their Navy-yard, on Thursday last, of the first new sloop-of-war:

"Sloop-of-war No. 1 was launched from the lower ship-house at the Navy-yard at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the presence of an immense concourse of persons. The launch was a very beautiful one, and was not attended with any accident. Miss MARY FLORINA GAINS, daughter of the constructor, performed the christening, calling the vessel 'Sloop No. 1,' as there has not yet been a name given to her. It is intended to place her in the dry-dock at once for coppering. This vessel is one of eight provided for by an act of the last Congress. Six being built in the places designated—New-York, Boston, Portsmouth, Norfolk, Pensacola and San Francisco. All are to be propellers, but in the one in course of construction at San Francisco, Sloop No. 1 is the first of the stocks. She was commenced about the middle of September, and was ready for launching by Christmas, but the weather delayed it. Her length is 200 feet, beam 36 feet 9 inches, depth of hold 19 feet. She is 1,400 tons burthen, and will draw about 9 feet water. Her model indicates speed, her war being rather of the clipper build. The engines, which are being made at the foundry of Messrs. MERRICK & SON, are to be of 1,000 horse power, as large as those of the Lancaster. By the terms of the contract, they are to be completed within three months from the day of launching. This sloop will carry two 11-inch pivot guns, each gun, with the carriage, weighing 25,000 pounds, and two 32-pounders. The weight of each of these guns is 8,700 pounds. Mr. GAINS made the drawings for the vessel, and Mr. HOOVER superintended her construction. She is built entirely of white oak, and is most substantially constructed. Altogether she is creditable to Philadelphia skill.

TRIAL OF MICHAEL FINN FOR MURDER IN COOK COUNTY, ILL.—The trial of MICHAEL FINN for the murder of NATHANIEL VIAL, in the town of Cicero, a few miles out of Chicago, on the 30 of June last, terminated several days ago. The prosecution was conducted by DANIEL MCELLOY, Esq., and District-Attorney HAYNE, and is said to have been managed with much ability. The Jury at first were unable to agree, as the statutes of Illinois recognize no intermediate offence between simple manslaughter and murder. Eventually a conviction was obtained for the former.

GENESEE VALLEY RAILROAD.—The iron is laid on the track from Avon to Mount Morris, thus completing railway communication between the latter place and Rochester.

DYSPEPSIA—WHAT IS IT? HOW CURED.

DYSPEPSIA is our national disease—weak stomach, feeble digestion, distress after eating, costive habit, bilious condition. How many suffer with it, and its attendant symptoms of low spirits, bad taste, coated tongue, obstipated bowels, and attacks of headache! Yet how few know how to cure it! Generally, because the bowels are constipated, resort is had to cathartics or laxatives. But such a condition was never cured by cathartics, whose only office is to weaken the digestion, and impair the integrity of the entire assimilative system.

But HOFFMANN'S HOMŒOPATHIC DYSPEPSIA PILLS—a simple medicated sugar-pill—have cured hundreds of the worst and most obstinate cases. This is done simply by improving the tone and restoring the integrity of the digestive organs, from which result good appetite, regular habits, a clear head and buoyant spirits. Such a medicine is a gem, and only requires to be known to be appreciated.

N. B.—A full set of HOFFMANN'S HOMŒOPATHIC SPECIFICS, with book of directions, and twenty different remedies, in large vials, morocco case, $5; do. in plain case, $4; family case of 15 boxes and book, $2.

These remedies, by the single box or case, are sent by mail or express, free of charge, to any address, on receipt of the price. Address,

FRIDAY, Jan. 21—P. M.

The Stock Exchange somewhat sympathized with the weather to-day. In the phrase of the Street, when prices incline downward, it was "softer" than yesterday. The decline was ½ ⅌ cent. on New-York Central, 1@1½ ⅌ cent. on Reading, 1¼ on Pacific Mail, and 1@1½ ⅌ cent. on the Western Roads. The State list and the Railway Bonds were generally steady at Thursday's prices. Virginia rose ½ ⅌ cent., selling at 97, ex dividend. At the early Board the dealings in New-York Central seemed to be at a dead lock; scarcely a share of cash stock sold, the bid being 84½ ⅌ cent. In Reading, however, and in Pacific Mail, the sellers were unusually urgent, and sales were pressed in both cases, particularly on sellers' option. On the other hand, Pennsylvania Coal and Harlem Preferred were firmer and in good request; and Erie, though a fraction below the top bid of yesterday afternoon, was in demand at 14¼@¼. We understand that the arrangement for the completion of the Long Dock Improvement, for which the Erie Company are under large advances and responsibilities, without deriving in its unfinished state any profit from it, is nearly ready for public announcement. The money is to be advanced on mortgage by a party of private capitalists in this City, at 90 cents on the dollar, to the extent of $500,000, under a new contract for finishing the work by the 1st of December next. In part consideration of this negotiation, the Long Dock Company, it is said, have agreed to sell, out and out, to the same parties, a portion of their lots on the water front. At the afternoon Board the short sellers had the advantage more decidedly than for several days past, and sold Reading and Galena with considerable freedom at the decline of the morning, buyer's option, and at even lower prices, cash and seller's option. Reading closed 49¾ and Galena 71. The sales of Central were nearly uniform at 84¼ ⅌ cent., though finally offered 84¾, seller 15 days, which is tantamount to carrying over the delivery of the Stock to the last of February, when the transfers, which close about 31st inst. for the dividend, will reopen. Pacific Mail was sold down to 86¼ ⅌ cent. The rumors of competition are somewhat varied to-day from the old surmise that VANDERBILT is to jockey his ally, from whom and the United States Company he has a subvention of $672,000 a year, to an English line of propellers on the Pacific, (to be arranged through parties here and at San Francisco,) to carry freight and passengers between San Francisco and Panama. If this be all, we do not see in the fact, come when it may, that the old Mail Company and their thirteen steamers are necessarily to be obliterated, or to have their dividends wholly struck down. If such be the feeling of the actual shareholders, they have made a most unreasonable mistake heretofore in supposing that a single concern is always to have the monopoly of the Pacific steam trade, or that a Company of their strength can only exist by monopoly. The whole story, however, may turn out like the Vanderbilt surmise. The market finally closed with some heavy bids for Central at 84¼; Reading, 49¾@¾; Galena, 71; Rock Island, 59¾@60; Missouris, 86¼.

The rain storm and the fact that no regular mail steamer sails to-morrow, made business dull at the Banking-houses and on the Merchants' Exchange to-day. Money is easier than quoted yesterday on prime short acceptances, which were done to-day at 3½ ⅌ cent. Demand loans are 4 ⅌ cent. Exchange on Europe quiet. The Customs duties are $181,000, raising the balance in the Sub-Treasury to $4,787,998. A few preliminary deposits on the bills for the New Loan were made to-day, but most of the arrangements will probably be made to-morrow.

The Commercial says of the Pacific Mutual Marine Company of this City:

"The annual statement of the business of the Pacific Mutual Insurance Company will be found among the leaded advertisements in to-day's paper. The net earned premiums of the year 1858 were $[illegible]. The losses amounted to $[illegible] 17, to which add the payments for re-insurance, expenses, &c., and the result is a net profit for the year of $[illegible]. The assets of the Company on the 31st of December were $679,750 99.

The trustees have declared a dividend of 45 ⅌ cent. on the net earned premiums, for which certificates will be issued on the 1st of February. On that day interest at the rate of 6 ⅌ cent. per annum will be paid on the outstanding certificates, and the certificates of the issue of 1856 will be redeemed in cash."

The Cincinnati Gazette of Tuesday furnishes the following information relative to the affairs of the Ohio Life and Trust Company:

"The preliminaries agreed upon between the attorneys for Stevens & Brown, and for Bell & Guthrie to take the two cases out of Court, so far as they affect the assets now in the hands of Sheriff HAMILTON, was brought before the Superior Court, at General Term, yesterday. Judge HOADLY presided. A decree proceeding on Trustees, JAMES F. KETCHUM and CHARLES BRADLEY, Esqrs., and dismissing the attach Mort. for contempt against M. C. Statistics of Manufactures in the United States.

The following is an abstract or general summary from the Digest of the Statistics of Manufactures, which has just been completed in accordance with an act of Congress, and transmitted to that body by the President. While this table presents only the general results in their most condensed form, the Digest itself develops the conditions of every branch of manufacturing industry for the entire country in the year 1850, and will doubtless attract a large share of public attention, as presenting the only official and authentic information respecting the manufactures of all the States which has appeared for twenty-five years. Additional value attaches to this work, as furnishing the means of establishing the progress of the mechanic arts, now and hereafter, as the eighth census is to be taken on the plan of the seventh. Provision for this compilation was made in last June, by Congress, and Mr. KENDRICK, who was early identified with the seventh census, was appointed to complete the Digest, which it is believed he has satisfactorily accomplished:
